

Minigolf Social Club

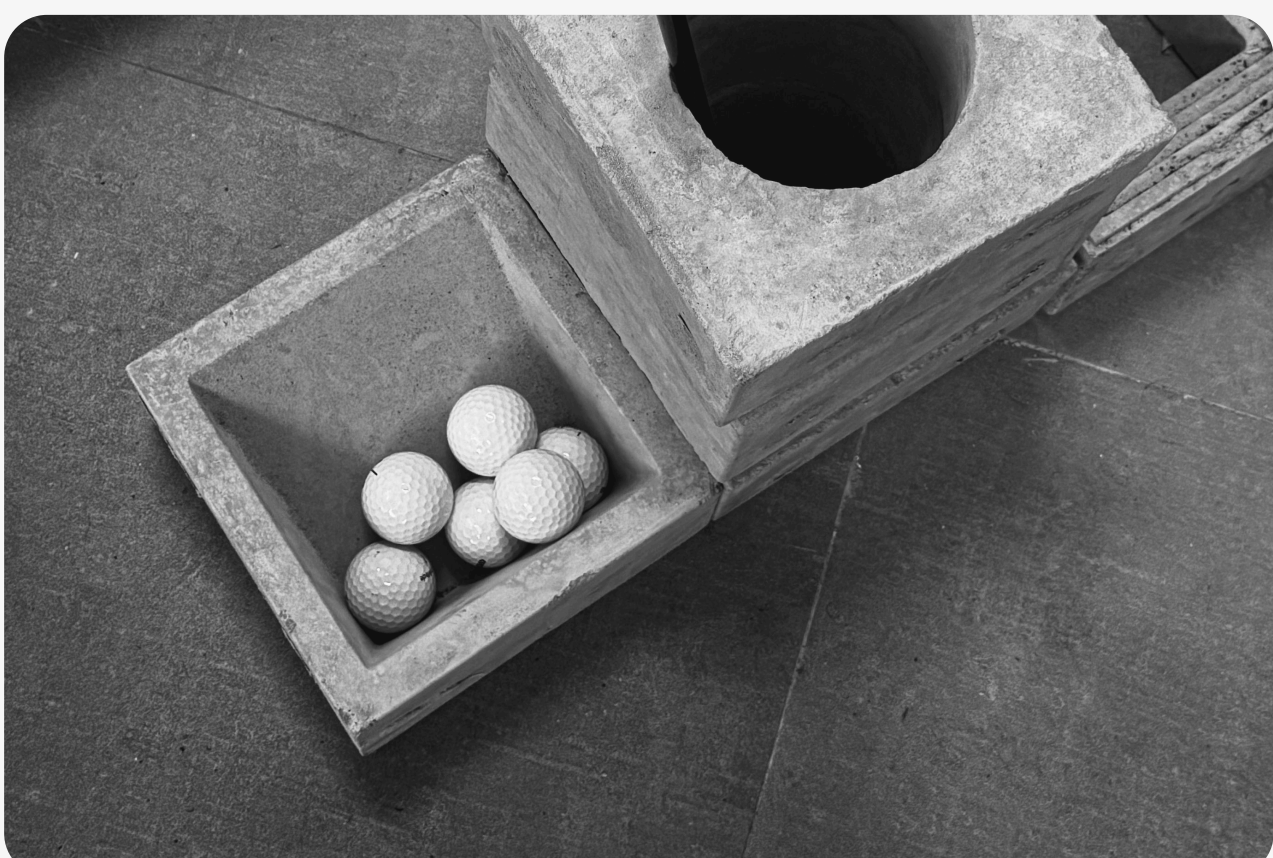

This is an investigation into rediscovering day-to-day objects and materials under a new light, uncovering hidden narratives within the material properties of reclaimed objects.

PROJECT

Five stations.
Five material investigations.

CONCEPT

We started by looking closely at everyday objects and reclaimed materials – not as things to simply reuse, but as things with their own properties, histories and possibilities. Instead of beginning with a fixed form, we let the materials lead.

The result is a series of minigolf stations built through this process of discovery.
